

A print control method for a tandem printing system having a host unit which supplies print data to a plurality of printers which are connected by a tandem-connection, includes the step of controlling synchronous operations of the plurality of printers by a single tandem control unit which is operable independently of the host unit and is provided independently of the plurality of printers.

5

10

15

20

25

30

35